

Lorin Galvin is the Director of the District Court of Douglas County's Office of Conciliation and Mediation Services.

The Office of Conciliation and Mediation Services administers the Court's Rule 4.3 for mediation of parenting plans in dissolution of marriage and paternity cases and the restorative justice component of the Young Adult Court.

Prior to his current position he was actively engaged in private law practice which consisted primarily of litigation and counseling in the areas of family law, real estate, family corporations, civil litigation in both federal and state courts, bankruptcy, farm reorganization, personal injury, workers compensation, and mediation of domestic relations and commercial disputes in court based programs and in pre-litigation situations.

Mr. Galvin is a graduate of University of Nebraska at Kearney and Creighton University Law School. He was admitted to the Nebraska bar in 1977